The group has begun work on the interface design as well as the encoding software. RealNetworks recently released SDKs and source code for Helix Producer and Helix Server, both technologies that are heavily relied upon in the system design. Due to this, the system design will change from relying on pre-compiled software to custom software created by the group that utilizes the Helix Producer SDK. The group feels that we will be able to better integrate Helix Producer's functionality into our custom interfaces through this method.

The group has also worked on scheduling for the semester. Weekly meetings with Prof. Heffes and Prof. Yao will occur on Tuesdays at 3:30PM during the weeks that EE-424 lecture is not being held.
