- We have found all the necessary software to start the actual program. We are currently doing research on whether the barcode scanner will be able to read the LCD screen. From the research we have done so far, we learned that the barcode scanner reads by reflecting off light. If this is the basic concept of a barcode scanner is true we believe that it should be able to read an lcd screen.
- We have also started on our homepage and are currently putting up your contact info, and the basic project description. I am currently assigning different assignments to each individual group members to get our project rolling.
- Our first official meeting with professor Yao is this Wednesday 3:00pm.
