Weekly Status:

Over the past week we have made some progress in working out a route plan for the call manager including international calling options. We also began work on our final presentation, including what we want to display and who should start working on what part of the display. We agreed that we didn't really need to display either the physical call manager computer or gateway router, because we made the call manager out of an old Gateway2000 that isn't very attractive.

We are also working on getting this new gateway router for only $600. We sent a thorough proposal to Prof. McNair last Tuesday, and I will follow up tomorrow.
