Weekly Status:

We have made good progress over the last week. We created a first draft presentation of our economics and reviewed it with Prof. Marino. We also had a good meeting with our advisor, Prof. Man, about various avenues of expansion as well as a new networking lab that he asked for our input on. Over this next week we will revise our economic model and explore a few alternatives. We will also work to hammer down the details needed for a few more prototype plans. However, it still appears that we could do most of our prototypes for almost no cost. More detailed plans for the prototypes are in development.
