Weekly status:
This week was another satisfactory one in terms of the project. We met Monday, and then Sheila and Rich met with Prof. McNair on Tuesday. I was unable to attend that meeting because of a Chemistry exam, but spoke with our advisor later in the day when turning in the midterm project update. The project seems to be on track, and hopefully we won't run into any major snags between here and design day. If we do, there are contingency plans (detailed in the midterm report) that will allow us to present something on design day. We're still working to pound out the core features of our prototype. Once we get a system up and running, we'll start adding features and aesthetics. I still think we will meet most of our projected presentation goals.
